PUBLIC SCHOOLS BIG INSTITUTION

Student Says Their Value to Communities Is Not Fully Appreciated

By ELSIE WHITNEY '26
"Educated or not educated" is the all-embracing question that assails humanity, no matter what walk of life one travels. The public school system of America is at the present doing much towards making the uneducated few still more in the minority, but it needs the hearty support of all true Americans to be really successful. Does the public do its part? Oh yes, it votes for the bonds, if it is convenient, and if it thinks they will not have a tendency to raise the taxes.

The citizens go to the meetings for the discussion not conditions, if they have nothing else to do. Oh yes, America makes the outward movements of support, but has it the interests of education of the public school close to its heart?

Lack of interest in educational affairs on the public's part is in a large part due to the lack of total realization and appreciation of the effect the public school system has on our dearly beloved America.

Has Unlimited Influence
The school has an uplifting, helping, and never hindering influence on all about us. Education decreases the number of crimes, for statistics show that a sweeping majority of the criminals all over the United States have attained only a fifth grade education.

The public schools make better citizens. The development of character begins when a child enters the first grade, where he is taught truthfulness, for "Without truth there can be no other virtue." He is taught that "the denial of fault doubles it." This training is continued until the student has finished college, where he has acquired a knowledge of his duties as a citizen and has had his sense of honor and patriotism developed. If these morals are practiced daily and hourly they will gradually become habits.

Scientific men say that habits formed while young are seldom broken after the age of twenty-five or thirty. Also, that it is very difficult to break a habit that has been thoroughly established at any time of life. So if the men and women of tomorrow are to be good citizens and our republic is to be perpetuated, the public school system must be supported.

Offers Business Education
The schools of today offer a business education to those who desire it, and this is having a marked effect on the commercial life of America. Keener competition and better workmanship are resulting in a better industrial record for our nation.

What the public school system is doing for America is marvelous. Every phase of an American's life is made better through education. So, if they want this good work to gain more momentum, the citizens must do their duty, and doing it, adopt as their slogan, "Public schools, we're back of you."

This is American Education Week. It is being observed by the schools of Glendale. Pupils are preparing for publication reasons why education—more of it—is necessary. In these columns will be found brief articles by Glendale pupils.

Worth the Price?

By JOE STEPHENS, '25
I do not think that too much is spent on public schools. Many people believe that too much is spent and some think that children should get their education behind a plow. This idea is wrong, because the public schools are one of the country's largest assets.

An educated person is worth much more to the country than one who has never attended school. This is true in many ways. An educated person will make a good citizen. He will be able to understand what the country is doing, and he will be able to vote intelligently.

An educated person is worth much more than an uneducated person in all lines of business. A farmer with an education will be able to determine what crops will be best to plant on his farm. He will be able to do his work in a more systematic way. He will know how much he should expect to receive for his crop and where the best place to sell it will be.

Some people are under the impression that the equipment in our public schools is too elaborate. This is a mistake. No more equipment is bought than is necessary. If a child is to learn how to use office or any other kind of equipment, he should have the equipment to use. All the equipment that is bought is expected to last a long time.

A school building does not necessarily have to be expensive in order to be beautiful, but it should be made as attractive as possible for the money that is put into it. A pupil will work harder and will learn much more if he is working in a school that he can be proud of. Furthermore, when he gets into business life, if he has to put up some kind of a business structure, he is apt to put up the kind of a building that he is used to seeing.

The gymnasium and athletic field are important parts of a school. They give the student the exercise he needs to develop his body. They will take his mind off his studies and give it a rest during the day. If a student has plenty of exercise he will be able to study harder. This is only half of what the gymnasium does. It creates competition between schools and starts school spirit. This keeps the pupil interested in his school and gives him something to work for besides his studies.

A public school is a sound investment. The more a country will put into it, the more it will receive from it.

About Ants

By NORMAN BROWN
Wilson Ave. Age 12 years.
There are over five thousand different kinds of ants. The ants are classed at the top of insect life. No place in the world is too hot or too cold for them. When it gets too hot or too cold they go down farther into the earth. Neither flood nor drought can destroy their community unless it lasts too long.

A female ant can store up enough food in her body to last her nearly a year. There are three classes of ants in every ant hill. The male and the female are the higher class and the workers are the lower class. The male and the female have wings but the workers have no wings.

The worker ants live from four to seven years and the queen of-

My Ideal Teacher

By AUDREY BALL '25
Ever since I have started to school, I have looked for certain ideals in my teachers. I imagine that every student does the same. The teacher of my dreams is one that is always neatly dressed. Still I love to see my teacher come to school in pretty, frilly dresses, for Oh! how tired I grow of seeing them in skirts and blouses the whole year through. They remind me of just so many ex-conviets. No wonder students have the habit of speaking of old maids and school teachers in the same whispered breath. Teachers are only human, and I don't believe that there would be as many old maids in this world, if the teacher would only reform, and wear a slight curl in her hair, and a ruffle somewhere on her dress. The teacher of my dreams will smile at me, whether it is seven forty-five in the morning or four-twenty in the afternoon, and I do love to see a bit of powder on the end of her nose. Really, I do believe that a teacher would be just as handy with a powder puff as some of her girl students are.

The teacher of my ideals is one that will take time to explain a certain part of a certain lesson to a certain individual when it is needed.

No student has faith in a teacher who says she will do a certain thing, and who immediately turns and does the opposite. When my ideal teacher says that she intends to give poor marks to students who do not hand in their work at a certain time, she does not give them good marks when their work comes lagging in, two or three days late, for, she does not want her students to lose faith in her.

Dutch Children

By JOHANNA MICHEL, Age 13
Wilson Avenue

Some people seem to think that the Dutch children have entirely different customs in and out of school, than the American children, but this is not true. They have a few different customs. I will tell you some of them.

In Holland the school hours are nine o'clock until twelve o'clock. The afternoon session is from two o'clock until four o'clock. On Wednesday and Saturday there is a half day session. There are first, second, and third class schools. You have to pay money to go to the schools in Holland. If you go to the third class school you don't have to pay anything. Only the real poor children go to the third class school.

In some things the Dutch children are far more advanced, especially in arithmetic. In the first grade the children have the multiplication tables. In America the children don't have the multiplication tables until they are in the fourth grade. The girls are taught how to knit, crochet, and embroider in the third grade. In all the grades the children sit two in a seat. One thing the schools in Holland don't have is a nice big playground. But they have a big gymnasium room. The children have to go to school until they are thirteen years old.

The customs out of school are different than we expect. When the girls arrive home they first help their mothers with the chores about the house. They then must spend at least a half an hour in sewing, knitting, crocheting, or embroidering. Then they may play with their friends. After the dishes are washed and wiped, they may do their homework if they have any.

ten lives fifteen years. If an ant won't work he is killed and taken out of the hole.

All ants live in colonies. There are hundreds of ants in one colony.

Most ants are hard workers. Ants live in a hole in the ground and they have many rooms. In some, they store food, in others eggs are kept.

Some of the workers are kept busy every day polishing eggs with their tongues. Other of the workers act as nurse maids and take the young out for an airing after a hot day.

The ants keep cows or little plant lice. The ants keep these lice guarded well. They live on leaves. The ants go around from one to the other and stroke them until they give a drop of sweet liquid.

The fungus ants bring leaves to their homes and raise their own fungus.

Broadway Pharmacy Giving Gold Fish

The Broadway Pharmacy, 400 East Broadway, has now been changed into a fish store—almost. George A. Whitaker announced this morning that he expected to give away more than a thousand fish this week.

However, the fish in question belong to the type zoologically or "fishologically" known as Carassius Auratus—which is Noah Webster for "gold fish."

Each sale of "Lax-Lax," which Mr. Whitaker reports is one of the best cathartics on the market, entitles the purchaser to take home a small bowl containing two baby gold fish. He stated that he expected to dispose of 500 bowls before the sale is over.

SCHOOL STATUS IN U. S. FIXED

Principle That State Must Educate Its Children
Now Established

By BEULAH SCHULTE, '26
Public education has been gradually established as a great national interest. The principle that the wealth of the state must educate the children of the state has been firmly established.

Public education is not only becoming more universal, but it is demanding a longer period of service, and is continually assuming new functions. Formerly the elementary schools contented themselves with a few abbreviated years of drill on the fundamentals of reading, spelling, writing, and numbers. Then geography, language, history and psychology were added. Now we are revising these courses, filling them with up-to-date materials and adding new studies, such as domestic arts, manual training, drawing, literature, civics, and more or less of the physical, biological and social sciences.

The grade schools are filled with eight years of serious study, to which are now added four years of high school work. The school code of each of the states today represents an important, historical development, and contains a large, important, and constantly expanding body of school law; while school legislation has become one of the important interests considered in each meeting of the legislature of the state.

Extension of Courses
The extension of the public school course both in breadth of materials and in length of attendance indicates the new functions these schools have assumed. They now attempt, not merely to give the pupil training and skill in the use of the tools of learning, but also add a wide range of information; the elements of general culture, and a certain amount of the technical training needed in the home and in the industrial world. Nothing short of efficiency in every phase of citizenship can satisfy the state.

As a result, today it is a settled conviction of the people of our different American states that the provision of a liberal system of free education for the children of the state, is one of the most important duties of the state, and as a consequence such education is being given very markedly to the moral uplift of the people, to a higher civic virtue, and to increased economic returns to the state. We of today conceive of free public education as a birthright of the child on the one hand, and as an exercise of the state's inherent right to self-preservation and improvement on the other.

The children of today are the voters of tomorrow, and to prepare them well for their duties is the opportunity of the state. Each new generation of voters so prepared, should in turn stand for an enlarged conception as to the need, purpose, function, and scope of public education.

In no other country but the United States have the people worked out so fully the purpose of making a system of public education good enough for rich and poor alike.

The Violet

By PHEBE VANDEWATER
11 Years Old
Wilson Avenue School

I was dressed in purple with yellow hair. I lived in the happy wood. I was asleep under the beautiful leaves when the Blue Bird awoke me with his call, "Spring is here! Spring is here!"

I sprang up and donned my best dress. I heard the sound of falling footsteps. Next I saw a little girl with a basket on her arm. When I saw her I hung my head. She picked me up and put me in the basket with some others like me and some maidenhair ferns. I felt very bashful in with the fern. The little girl covered us with a blue and white cloth. The little girl's name was Delight.

Delight took us down the street to an automobile. Inside it was gray, with cushions on the seat. I saw all of this through a hole in the basket.

Delight stepped out of the automobile and went into a big house. We went into a room with pink curtains and a pink bedspread. Delight took us out of the basket and put me in a vase with my city cousin, the Pansy. Perhaps you have guessed who I am. I am the modest Violet. The rest of the flowers and fern were put in a vase beside me.

My cousin and I were sitting beside the window. We could see the wide lawn and the trees and the city flowers. We could see the automobiles going by. My cousin did not look out of the window much. She spent most of her time smoothing her dress.

Although I enjoyed my visit to the city I like my happy woodland home the best.

BALLOT AGAINST ANNEXATION PLAN

Foothill Association Votes
Down Movement to Join
Los Angeles

The Foothill Improvement association, by a vote of 35 to 5, is opposed to annexation to Los Angeles. The action was taken at an open meeting of the organization. A number of talks on the subject were made.

Reading of communications from heads of various civic departments were listened to with interest by persons attending the meeting of the association Tuesday night at the Grand View school. Alex Mitchell, president, directed the meeting.

Among the communications read were one from the city council on general improvements in the Foothill section; one from the health department on removing obstructions and live stock from Roberts avenue and vicinity of the school; and a complete statement from the public service department on the water distributing system for that district, for which the district voted $30,000 in bonds two years ago.

Express Thanks

The association members were also greatly pleased over the letter read from the boys and girls of the school thanking the association for the donation of money from the association for books for the school library.

Another communication was from the Kiwanis club inviting the association to participate in the big community Christmas tree and celebration. This was followed by brief reports from committees on park site, school problems and the library.

The subject of annexation was brought up and the association went on record as against annexation. A motion favoring annexation was presented and a rising vote showed five persons for annexation and thirty against it.

Debate Question

A debate on annexation was held and both sides of the question presented. At the close of the debate the meeting adjourned with the slogan to "Stop, look and listen in on all anti and annexation topics."

The latter part of the evening there was a social hour with music by the junior orchestra directed by Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Gulick; a piano solo by Miss Olive Gulick, and community entertainment by Mrs. W. Q. Widdows, Miss Roberta Widdows and Mr. and Mrs. Don Orput.

The association is to have a New Year's reception, the date to be announced later.

New Guerilla War Opens In Ireland

DUBLIN, December 7.—With the Irish free state in official existence less than twenty-four hours, republican irregulars opened a new offensive of guerilla warfare today.

Two hundred irregulars attacked the Free State garrison at Bandon, County Cork, capturing ninety prisoners. There was violent machine gun firing in which a civilian was killed.

Subsequently the Free Staters recaptured the Bandon garrison.

Answers to Correspondents

My dear followers:

When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 250 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest.

Fourteen-year-old girl:—I cannot write you an individual diet list, dear. Send for our pamphlet on gaining if you haven't it, and make out your own menus, remembering that you are growing and you should include in your diet at least one quart a day of milk, fresh green vegetables and whole wheat bread. As you are thin perhaps you can take more than a quart of milk a day profitably. You need not have it all in the form of drinks.

You need at least ten hours sleep and you should take a rest period in the day time. A warm bath every day, with a cold shower if there is a good reaction, is good for anyone, I believe.

K. P. W.:—Jello in itself has very little food value. It is an incomplete protein. The calorific value would depend upon the amount of sugar and other things you put in it. Three cubes of sugar is 100 calories.

Mrs. C. R.:—Your large busts and the roll of fat under them disappear as you reduce. Usually the fat on the fattest spot goes first. The floor exercise will be good for the abdominal wall fat and the muscles.

Mrs. P. G.:—A baby from 16 to 18 months can have beside its quart of milk, cereals, bread (best 24 hour old), butter, orange juice, apple sauce, prune pulp, egg, beef juice or scraped beef or other lean meats, potato, rice, macaroni, simple desserts like junket, jello and custards.

Mrs. C. E.:—You say you had for three days only three glasses of milk and did not lose weight on it. Are you sure that is all you had? If so your scales were wrong. Mrs. E. Three glasses of milk would be only 480 calories a day. While at your age, 72, you probably do not need more than 1800 to 2000 calories a day—depending upon your activities—there is a big difference between what you got and what you needed. Did you slip in the kitchen very salty that caused a retention of water in your system? For the symptoms that you give you had better see your personal physician.

A. B. C.:—Your weak heart should be improved now that you have lost the 23 pounds excess weight. Are you masticating your food thoroughly? Perhaps your gas may come from rapid eating. Oftentimes gas is simply swallowed air.

Dependent.—Don't be despondent, you can gain. Others have done it. Have a physical examination to see that there is no organic basis for your thinness and send for our instructions and follow them faithfully. Pretty soon I shall expect a letter asking me for instructions on losing.

Tomorrow.—The History of Me By Me, Chapter XXXVI. (Copyright 1922 George Matthew Adams)

A LETTER FROM A MAN

A somewhat cynical reader of the masculine sex, and I should judge quite middle age, has written me a letter from Ohio. The letter is so interesting I must quote part of it.

He has been reading, he says, various articles on pyorrhea. I was talking about a cure for pyorrhea, which he claims cannot be cured. Curing, he says, is the only means of checking it, and a good dentist will loosen the gums from the teeth and cure both gums and teeth. He had a slight tendency to pyorrhea which he checked by the curing process, and by using tooth brush (not paste) and the stiffest, hardest bristled brush he could find. Years of this treatment has stopped the bleeding and receding.

This tendency appeared 35 years ago. Twenty-seven years ago he had three teeth pulled, filled, no others have been touched since then. He has never had a tooth extracted or a toothache.

The important thing, he says, is to watch the keystone tooth in the young child as it is usually the first to decay, and if it isn't preserved the rest are soon affected. His three unsound teeth were all keystones.

He has another suggestion which was not about teeth. Why, he asks, doesn't plastic surgery do something for men with protruding ears? "Women can hide them—but not a man, especially if bald, and get a look at the back of his head. If he has protruding ears you'll agree that only a mother could love him!" He adds cynically, that he doubts if I'll read his letter. I have not only done so, I can also tell him that plastic surgery does a great deal for protruding ears. Any surgeon and most doctors will cut a certain tiny ligament back of the ear and bandage the ears flat so they heal in a proper position. It is a very simple operation and not expensive, only most people don't bother to find out about it.

J. I. T. G.:—Sometimes when the hair falls out it is not the scalp at fault, so much as the condition of the whole system. In such cases local treatment will not to attend to both, so build up your health and all the while massage the scalp daily and include a tonic with this treatment several times each week.

Pan.—As you want to reduce so many portions of the body, the simplest method would be to reduce all over through a course in dieting.

Young Mother.—Little children often have warts for a time and they disappear without treatment. You may hasten their departure by rubbing into them some oil and if this does not dissolve them in a few days, applications of turpentine may prove effective.

Tomorrow.—Care of the Elbows

The Typewriter

By CONSTANCE BOYNTON
Age 11 Years
Wilson Avenue School

Not many people know who invented the typewriter. A good many think that either Mr. Remington or Mr. Underwood invented it, but this is not so. The real inventor has hardly ever been heard of. His name is Christopher Lantham Sholes. Many people also think it was invented for money. This is not so either. He invented it for the people who now call stenographers. He said: "If this thing of mine works, it will mean many less backaches and headaches for them." He did it, not for money, but for the public benefit. His daughter helped him greatly in the invention, because she, too, was interested in a public benefit or in the people's welfare. When at last it was done it was a very frail machine. It could only be used once or twice and then it would break down. This was not what Sholes wanted. He wanted a machine that could be used and used and last a number of years. He worked for four years and improved it. Still it was somewhat frail. Still he was somewhat proud of it. At first the public, especially the printers, were very angry, because they thought that the typewriter would take some of their business away from them, but after a while the feeling wore off.

Mr. Underwood became very interested and Sholes took him into partnership.

Typewriters came out faster and faster and by this time about ten had been sent to Europe. But still it was not strong enough to stand much usage. Then Mr. Underwood took over most of the firm because Sholes was getting very weak. He died planning improvements for his machine.

Then Mr. Underwood took Mr. Remington into the business. Together they worked until it came to be the machine of today. They are still making improvements on it and will, as long as we use typewriters.

Safety First

By DOROTHY JENSEN
Age 12
Wilson Avenue School

Most accidents which occur are due to carelessness. These accidents could be avoided if people would observe safety-first rules.

People cross busy and dangerous streets while reading a newspaper. This is a silly and dangerous thing to do. One should always be on the alert and on the lookout when crossing a street or leaving a street car or machine.

Children wear roller skates when in busy sections of a city. They should not wear them on account of crossing streets or car tracks because they might stumble and fall.

Boys riding bicycles should use the same rules as men or women who drive cars. They should have a red or white light in back or in front of the bicycle. They should ride next to the curb. Boys when riding a bicycle should ride on the road and not on the sidewalk and should not hold on to cars or passing trucks.

Children should not play in streets. A driver cannot be on the lookout always. If he is on the alert when passing a corner he is doing his share.

People, when walking on a country road at night, should walk on the left side.

One should not run across streets. This is a thing most children do. They should keep calm in case of accident. If a car is coming do not run in ahead of it but stand still and the driver will know what to do. If you run back and forth he might hit another car or run into you. Keep calm and help avoid these accidents.

A man or woman driving a car should use all signals. So should boys when riding bicycles. When he is turning a corner to his left he should hold out his left hand, and his right when turning a corner to his right.

Each one should help the other persons to avoid these accidents of which the daily papers are full.

Agar Gelatine

By FRANK CONNER, Age 12
Wilson Ave. School.

Agar has been known to the Japanese for a long time, but they made it in a very primitive way. It is made from a certain kind of seaweed that grows all along the coast from Alaska to Mexico and along the coast of Korea and Japan. Japan and Korea have a very limited supply of the weed, but America has enough to supply the whole world.

To prepare Agar, the weed is first sorted, washed and cooked in boilers, then it is strained and the pulp sold for commercial fertilizer. The liquid is filtered as soon as it comes out of the cookers, then cooled and put through the filters again. Next it is placed in tubs to jell. When it is jelled it is put through a grinder and spread on cloth, then placed in a refrigerator and frozen. Lastly it is placed in the sun to dry and when thoroughly dried is pressed and shipped to all parts of the world.

Agar gelatine is used in making candies, ice cream and as a medicine for stomach troubles.

Big Bear Lake

JULIA PELLEY, Age 12
Wilson Ave. Intermediate School

It was a year ago last summer when father said that we ought to go to Big Bear Lake, because it was considered the most wonderful trip in Southern California. We packed our car and started out and left at three in the morning. It was wonderful to ride in the early dawn, to have the road to ourselves and to see the sun rise. We went up by way of the "Rim of the World." The name was certainly fitting for the steep road which seemed to run along the very tops of the mountains. There was switchback after switchback, which made one hold his breath. We finally reached what seemed to be the summit, but when we came to a camp we found that we were forty-seven miles from Big Bear. We traveled on through scenery that was very beautiful, on "top of the world," as we would say, because we could look out on the desert on one side, and on the other side the pine-covered mountains.

When we got to Little Bear, which is now Lake Arrowhead, it was still about forty miles from Big Bear. As it was getting late and we were tired, we camped in the beautiful woods between the two places.

The next morning after breakfast, we climbed a hill on top of which were huge rocks, as large as a room. There, we had our

Women Clubs Back Our National Song

CHICAGO.—Angered at repeated efforts from some sources to repudiate "The Star Spangled Banner" as the national song of the United States, the music division of the General Federation of Women's clubs has broadcast instructions to the chairmen of its sub-organizations to support Francis Scott Key's famous composition. Two principal objections to the song, the letter points out, have been that the music is taken from "Anacron in Heaven," an old English drinking song popular at the time of the American Revolution, and, secondly, that the third verse contains the words, "Breathing hatred of our ally, Great Britain."

"If we should become purists in music," the letter says in refutation of these charges, "we should have to eliminate from our hymnals many German drinking songs brought into the service by Martin Luther but now, through association, considered sacred hymns."

first view of beautiful Big Bear Lake, nestled among the mountain peaks.

We drove around the lake, and into the picturesque little town of Pine Knot, where we made a camp all of our own, back among the tall pines.

We are members of the Glendale Realty Board and are co-operating in the lately installed by the board.

EXCLUSIVE LISTINGS with our office will be listed through the realty board with all firms who are members of the Board.

UNDER THIS SYSTEM IT MEANS—

FIRST—That you have fixed the price and terms at which your property is to be sold.

SECOND—That the realtors are legally authorized for a definite period to sell at the price and terms so fixed.

In this way the realtors can serve their constituents better than under the haphazard system of listing used heretofore. As property holders your co-operation is solicited.

The Multiple Listing System Explained

The Glendale Realty Board recently adopted the so-called Multiple Listing System after a most careful and thorough investigation extending over a period of nine months. This system is in operation in over 63 other cities throughout the United States. Its purpose is to assist in elevating the realty profession, to provide more and better service to the property owner and to the buyer, and to secure closer cooperation of the agents.

Briefly, it is a system whereby property listed with one member of the Realty Board becomes quickly available in the office of every other member of the Board. There are many of its outstanding features of interest to the public, a few of which are as follows:

1. Minimum of effort on the part of the owner. He lists his property only with one agent, instead of walking a great distance or doing a large amount of telephoning to place it in the hands of several, and he only has to notify one agent when it is sold.
2. Maximum results. The agent who takes the listing immediately lists the property on the Board, whence the information is promptly disseminated to every other member of the system.
3. The Rules and Regulations are drafted to protect the owner's interests, to insure the advertising of his property.
4. The owner is in no danger of being compelled to pay more than one commission, and that at the same rate for all.
5. There are no "net" listings, which serves both as a protection against fraud and a guarantee that the owner will get the full value of his property.
6. The closer co-operation among the brokers and the uniform method of doing business will tend to stabilize the real estate business.
7. There will only be one sign on a piece of property. This will be particularly desirable in the case of vacant lots, which has been many times so plastered with signs as to look like a cemetery.
8. The owner will only have to recognize or deal with but one agent, that one being of his own selection among the members of the Glendale Realty Board, and, therefore, the one in whom he has the greatest confidence.

The MUCKER

by Edgar Rice Burroughs

And far uptown another sat with the same paper in her hand. Barbara Harding was glancing through the sporting sheet in search of the scores of yesterday's woman golf tournament. And as she searched her eyes suddenly became riveted upon the picture of a giant man, and she forgot about tournaments and low scores. Hastily she searched the heads and text until she came upon the name "Sailor Byrne!"

Yes! It must be he. Greedily she read and re-read all that had been written about him. Yes, she, Barbara Harding, scion of an aristocratic house—ultra-society girl, real and renowned—accounts a brutal prize fight. A half hour later a messenger boy found "Sailor" Byrne the center of an admiring throng in Professor Cassidy's third-floor gymnasium. With worshipping eyes taking in his new hero from foot to foot the youth handed Byrne a note.

He stood staring at the heavy weight until he had perused it. "Any answer?" he asked.

"No answer, kid," replied Byrne, "that I can't take myself, and he tossed a dollar to the worshipping boy."

An hour later Billy Byrne was ascending the broad, white steps that lead to the entrance of Anthony Harding's New York house. The servant who answered his ring eyed him suspiciously, for Billy Byrne still dressed like a teamster on holiday. He had no card!

"Tell Miss Harding that Mr. Byrne has come," he said.

The servant told him, standing in the hallway, and started to ascend the great staircase, but halfway up he met Miss Harding coming down.

"Never mind, Smith," she said. "I am expecting Mr. Byrne, and then seeing that the fellow had not seated her visitor she added, 'He is a very dear friend.' Smith faded quickly from the scene."

"Billy!" cried the girl, rushing toward him with outstretched hands. "O Billy, we thought you were dead. How long have you been here? Why haven't you been to see me?"

Byrne hesitated.

A great, mad hope had been surging through his being since he had read of the broken engagement and received the girl's note. And now, when he stood in her white attitude, he could read, as unmistakably as though her lips had framed the words that he had not hoped in vain.

But some strange influence had seemed suddenly to come to work upon him. Even in the brief moment of his entrance into the magnificence of Anthony Harding's home he had felt a strange little stricture of the throat—a choking, half-suffocating sensation.

The attitude of the servant, the splendor of the furnishings, the stateliness of the great hall, and the apartments opening upon it—all had whispered to him that he did not "belong."

And now Barbara, clothed in some wondrous foreign creation, beamed by her very appearance the expression that suffused her eyes. No, Billy Byrne, the mucker, did not belong there. Nor ever could he belong, more than Barbara ever could have "belonged" on Grand Avenue. And Billy Byrne knew it now. His heart went cold. The bottom seemed suddenly to have dropped out of his life.

Bravely he had battled to forget this wonderful creature, or, rather, his hopeless love for her—her he could never forget. But the note from her, and the sight of her had but served to rekindle the old fire within his breast.

He thought quickly. His own life or happiness did not count. Nothing counted now but Barbara.

He had seen the lovelight in her eyes. He thanked God that he had realized what it all would have meant, before he let her see that he had seen it.

"I've been back several months," he said, presently in answer to her question; "but I got sense enough to stay where I belong. Gee! Wouldn't I look great comin' up here buttin' in wit youse bunch of highlifers?"

Billy slapped his thigh resoundingly and laughed in stentorian tones that caused the eyebrows of the sensitive Smith on the floor above to elevate in shocked horror.

"Den dere was de mills. I couldn't break away from me fow, could I, to chase a bunch of skirts?"

Barbara felt a quail of keen disappointment that Billy had fallen again into the old dialect that she had all but eradicated during those days upon distant "Manhattan Island."

"I wouldn't 'o come up atal," he went on, "if I hadn't 'o read in de poiper how youse an' Mallory had busted. I t'ought I'd breeze in an' see wot de trouble was."

His eyes had been averted, mostly, as he talked. Now he swung suddenly upon her.

"He's on de square, ain't he?" he demanded.

"Yes," said Barbara. She was not quite sure whether to feel offended, or not. But the memory of Billy's antecedents came to his rescue. Of course he didn't know that it was such terribly bad form to broach a subject to her, she thought.

"Well, then," continued the mucker, "wot's up? Mallory's de guy for youse. Youse loved him or youse wouldn't have got engaged to him."

The statement was almost an interrogation.

Barbara nodded affirmatively.

"You see, Billy," she started, "I have always known Mr. Mallory, and always thought that I loved him until—until—" There was no answering light in Billy's eyes—no encouragement for the words that were on her lips. She halted lamely. "Then," she went on presently, "we became engaged after we reached New York. We all thought you dead," she concluded simply.

"Do you think as much of him now as you did when you promised to marry him?" he asked, ignoring her reference to himself and all that it implied.

Barbara nodded.

"What is at the bottom of this row?" persisted Billy. He had fallen back into the decent pronunciation that Barbara had taught him, but neither noticed the change. For a moment he had forgotten that he was playing a part. Then he recollected.

"Nothing much," replied the girl. "I couldn't rid myself of the feeling that they had murdered you, by leaving you back there alone and wounded. I began to think 'cward' every time I saw Mr. Mallory. I couldn't marry him, feeling that way toward him, and, Billy, I really never loved him as—as—" Again she stammered, but the mucker made no attempt to grasp the opportunity opened before him.

Instead he crossed the library to the telephone. Running through the book he came presently upon the number he sought. A moment later he had his connection.

"Is this Mallory?" he asked.

"I'm Byrne," Billy Byrne. De guy dat cracked your puss for youse on de Lotus."

"Dead, hell! Not me. Say, I'm up here at Barbara's."

"Yes, dat's wot I said. She wants youse to beat it up here's swift as youse kin beat it."

Barbara Harding stepped forward. Her eyes blazing.

Daily News Letter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad.

TODAY—Chinese drama has been revived in San Francisco, writes Ellis Martin, correspondent in that city.

TOMORROW—Familiarly all the nerve ganglions of government centered in a sort of solar plexus at No. 10 Downing street, indicated by David M. Church, London correspondent, but since the departure of Lloyd George this is no longer true. No. 10 is no longer "the government" as of yore.

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
For International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—The Chinese drama has come back.

In the old days before the great fire of 1906 great Chinatowns, one or more Chinese theatrical companies catered continually to the love of the Celestials for the theatre.

Followed busy days of reconstruction and the theatre in Chinatown went into disrepair. Then came the movies, Chinese flappers and modernity with its distractions of jazz music, the foot trot and bobbed hair. It seemed that Chinatown had been weaned away from the drama of China.

But age-old custom is hard to down. Some of the older residents of Chinatown who frowned on the forgetfulness of the present day generation yearned for Chinese drama. They leased a theatre on the edge of Chinatown and sent to China for the best company in Cathay. With the company came the "Mary Pickford" of China, the leading tragedienne if they have such things, and all of the other leaders of the profession. Chinatown grew excited as it seldom does. Chinese society gobbled up the boxes, while hot polliot stood in line to grab off the cheaper tickets.

The first night was a success and that assured a month's run. For it takes a month to present any Chinese play. An episode is presented each night and some of the longer plays take six weeks. The plays are all historical. They have no hero or heroine and no end. Each night the manager calls his company together and tells them the story of the episode to be presented that night. The characters improvise their lines as they go along. The better the actor the better the lines.

The matter of stage setting is easy. The stage hands sit or lie about on the stage and present a series of twelve dramas. That will take a year, so it looks like a long run. The old timers are happy—Chinese drama has come back. But they deplore the one innovation in the company. That is the presence of little "Mary Pickford" of China. In the old days women did not grace the stage. Their parts were always taken by men. Not so the modern company. In addition to the star there are three other Chinese actresses. But then, they sigh, there must be some concessions to up-to-date-ness. So they go and sit for four hours in blissful happiness.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND LULU'S CORN CAKES.

Oh, Uncle Wiggily, be careful! Be careful!

The bunny gentleman had not hopped far before he met Lulu Wiggily. The duck girl was digging a hole in the ground near a path that led amid the trees.

"Good morning, Mr. Fox," said the bunny. "Why are you working so hard—digging a hole in the frozen ground?" For the ground, you must know, was frozen hard, as this was near to Christmas time. "You are working very hard, Mr. Fox," spoke the Wolf.

"Yes," answered the Fox with a tired sigh as he sat down to rest. "It is hard work, but I think it is worth it."

"Why?" asked the Wolf, as he noticed an eager look on the face of the Fox.

"Because," whispered the Fox, "by digging this hole I shall catch Uncle Wiggily and nibble his ears."

"Nonsense!" laughed the Wolf, opening his mouth and showing his sharp teeth. "If you think Uncle Wiggily can be caught by digging a hole in the ground, you are very foolish. I know some rabbits live in burrows under the earth, but not Uncle Wiggily. He lives in a hollow stump bungalow!"

"As if I didn't know that!" snickered the Fox. "You and I have been to that hollow stump bungalow often enough trying to catch the rabbit gentleman. But I have another plan. Listen!"

Along this path," went on the Fox, pointing to one near where he was digging, "along this path Uncle Wiggily often hops to look for adventures. Some time today he will hop along here. By then I shall have dug my hole. I will hide in it, put some leaves over me to cover me from sight and when Uncle Wiggily comes along I'll jump out and grab him. He'll never see me until it is too late."

"Hum!" said the Wolf slowly, "that is a good trick. I'll help you catch the rabbit."

"Dig your own hole," said the Fox, and the Wolf did, making a hiding hole for himself on one side of the path, while the Fox made another hole on the opposite side of the path. When the holes were deep enough the Fox and Wolf would hide in them, covering themselves with leaves, and as Uncle Wiggily passed they would leap out at him.

And just about this time Uncle Wiggily was walking through the woods looking for an adventure.

And then, all of a sudden the fire blazed up high and made it so hot for the Fox and Wolf that out of their holes they leaped, with their tails on fire and away they ran to jump in the pond and put out the fire.

"Oh, look!" cried Lulu, as the Fox and Wolf ran. "Look at 'em run!"

"Ha! Ha! Yes, I see," said Uncle Wiggily. "They must have tried to play a trick on me, but I smoked them out! Oh, yes, I smoked them out!"

Then he and Lulu baked the corn cakes on a flat stone and very good they were. The bunny and duck girl had a most jolly time. And if the fire shovel doesn't catch cold in its handle when it chases the ice pick around the refrigerator, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily helping Alice sew.

APPARATUS AND DEVICES

By RALPH BROWN, RADIO ENGINEER

COMPONENT PART TWO-STAGE AMPLIFIER

The majority of the manufactured radio equipment is contained in cabinets and so compactly hidden that a tracing of their circuits is difficult. To the student who does not require the cabinet inclosed type and who wishes to have before him at all times a view of the wiring of his amplifier we commend the amplifier illustrated. It is an ideal instrument for the advanced amateur who wishes to carry on experiments in amplification and thus study at first hand the action of various forms of receiving circuits. It is an open wired set, exceptionally well adapted for the purpose, of a very simple make-up, incorporating modern features of design and workmanship.

Pin Removed From Little Girl's Lung

HUNTINGTON, W. Va.—Removal of a black-headed beauty pin, one and three-quarters inches in length, from the left lung of Lucille Saad, little daughter of a well known Pikeville resident, has been accomplished by surgery at a hospital here. The operation, known as bronchoscopy, was performed by Drs. C. M. Hawes and F. O. Marple. The instrument was passed into the lung through the windpipe, and the pin was removed, although with considerable difficulty. The operation was an entire success.

Nervous Stomach CAUSES GAS

Gas in the stomach and bowels doesn't always result from dyspepsia, improper diet or the fermentation of food. In most cases it is due to a highly sensitive condition of the stomach nerves. To get rid of the trouble, you must build up and strengthen these weak, irritated nerves of the stomach. Taking artificial digestors, such as pepsin or bismuth, only makes the stomach weaker than ever. It is like using dope to deaden a pain—the relief given is deceptive and harmful. Baalman's Gas Tablets act directly upon the affected nerves and gradually assist in restoring them to their natural healthy state. Gas and bloating will quickly disappear and you will no longer be bothered with pain around your heart, palpitation, shortness of breath, eructation at the pit of the stomach or distress after eating, due to gas. Ask for Baalman's Gas Tablets in the famous yellow package. Price $1. Sold by Roberts & Echols, J. Baalman, Chemist, San Francisco.—Advertisement.

Russian Wheat Crop O. K., Says Soviet

MOSCOW — Russia's harvest this year is satisfactory, according to a statement issued by M. Bruchanoff, People's Commissar for Food.

"The rye harvest is now finally known," he says. "Only in one district, Petrograd, is it below the average. In most places it is good or very good."

"The final wheat report is not yet available, but there are no bad reports from any part. Although the area sown in the famine region is 30 per cent below the previous year, yet the harvest throughout the Republic is 25 per cent higher. Last year the total amounted to thirty-one million tons; this year it will be forty-seven millions."

"The Volga area will feed itself, although some districts are still badly off for food. The whole region is also suffering from having to support a great number of orphans and from a shortage of livestock. The food tax in this area is therefore being used to relieve the distressed district and increase the amount of land being sown."

"There may be about three million tons of grain available for export, but personally I advise the establishment of reserves against the possibility of a recurrence of famine at some time."

The barometer was invented about the middle of the Seventeenth century.

There are five times as many kinds of insects as there are kinds of all other living beings.

It's A Fact

NEW YORK RUBES EASIEST Our theory that the rubes live in cities still holds. The New York citizen who bought the Pennsylvania Station from a stranger at the bargain price of $1500 should have his place in the hall of fame beside the Brooklynite who recently bought the Brooklyn bridge from a man he met on the street. Now another New York citizen tells the police he gave a stranger $1,583 for the right to collect nickels at a subway station. If you have anything you wish very much to sell, take it to New York.

WORKS WELL IN AUTUMN Scientists, after long study, announce that the human brain does its best work in November and December. Cool weather is a spur to mental activity, hot weather a brake. SPORTS

The Sport Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 7. — Representatives of the various and sundry organizations affiliated with the national association of professional baseball leagues are today more thoroughly convinced than ever that gambling must be absolutely divorced from all association with baseball.

This conviction was driven home to them by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis in an impassioned appeal at the annual banquet of the organization, which usually heralds the beginning of the annual meeting. All that remains is the mopping up of a few non-essential details this morning, a golf tournament of parts this afternoon and the meeting will have become history.

The attack on gamblers by Landis came quite unexpectedly. For some reason, he was supposed to base his remarks on the subject of the draft, but the commissioner ignored this issue, if any, and went right to the heart of the subject now nearest his heart.

In effect, he declared that the fair name of the sport is being soiled, this time from the outside instead of the inside, and named as an abiding influence the system of baseball pools that operate during the season all over the country.

"Most Vicious Element" declared in stentorian tones, "are the slimiest, most vicious element in connection with sport in this country. They must be driven out of existence if only for the sake of existing the honest follower of baseball a real favor."

"You have eliminated gambling for the most part from your baseball parks. I now ask you to turn your attention to these baseball pools. I realize, of course, that you are not in any way responsible for their existence and am making this appeal solely for the benefit of the American baseball fan who, after all, is the most important individual in the game.

"Personal investigation has proved to me that these pools all too often are operated in an illegal and highly dishonest manner and we want no more of them."

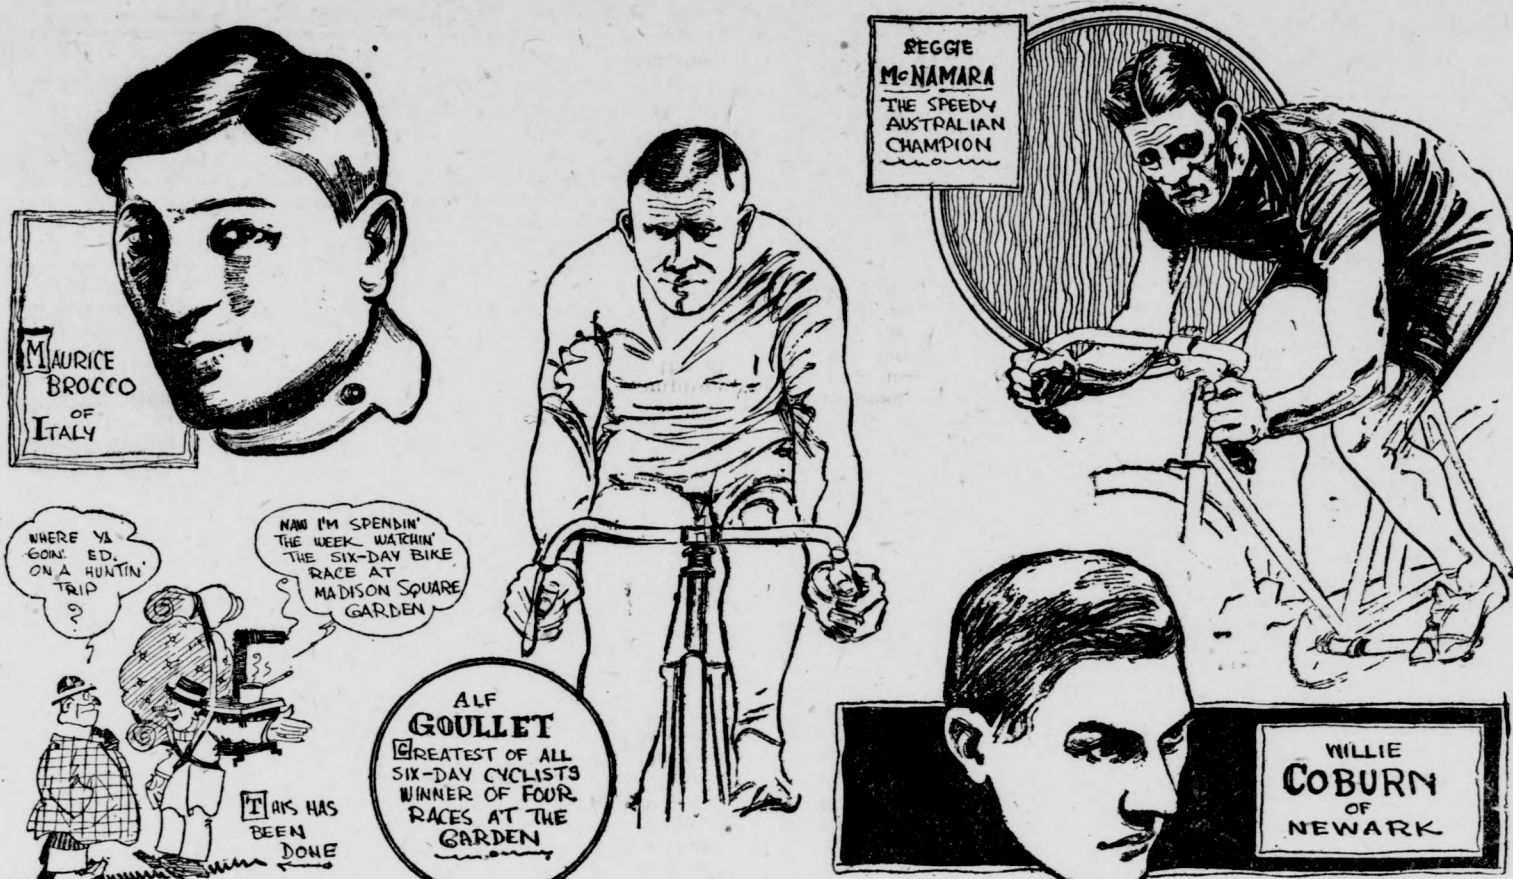

Break Contracts, Claim
The judge, it is understood, hopes to leave town today and with him will go the majority of delegates. The only issue of importance on the calendar for today is the hearing of the cases of Ollie O'Mara, Bob Steele and C. J. Crum, Indianapolis players, applying to the board of arbitration for reinstatement. They are said to have broken their contracts and now have thought better of it.

Something of a stir may develop in the event that reinstatement is denied them since not only the Indianapolis club, but the entire American association stands behind their plea. It is also possible that developments will follow the action of Al Tearney, president of the Western league, in asking that body for a ten-year contract.

It was rumored around the lobby last night that Tearney had tendered his resignation in the hope of forcing the league's hand. Al is a good man to keep around as it is generally understood that he labors without pay.

BIKE RACES

The "Six Day" bike race held each year at Madison Square Garden has grown in popularity until today the event takes on an international interest.

With nearly every European country represented by famous riders there is always keen rivalry and a determination by Americans to keep the title here.

The event this year began December 3 and will be the thirty-first renewal of the event.

The "Six Day" cycle races date from about 1875, when a twelve-hour-a-day affair was run in Birmingham, England. A little later one of eighteen hours a day was held in London. The first invasion of America took place in 1879. These exhibitions by European teams were held on roller-skating floors in New York, Boston, Chicago and other cities.

The first banked track was laid in 1896 at Springfield, Ill. This enabled the rider to take the turns at full speed.

The first real six-day race in America was held in the Washington Rink, Minneapolis, Minn., long before they rode these races on the island of Manhattan. Albert Shock won with 1405 miles. W. T. (Senator) Morgan was second, and Louis Armaido was third.

Until the race of 1899 the riders were compelled to go it alone for 142 hours, resting whenever nature compelled them or through some mishap to their limbs. The fathers of the law thought this form of amusement was too cruel and wearing on the human body, and by an act of the legislature passed in 1898, after Charles Miller for the second successive year had ridden the pick of the American and European riders into the ground, the conditions of the race were changed. The law required that no competitor in any race of six days could run or ride more than twelve hours each day. The management then conceived the idea of forming teams of two men, each riding twelve hours each day, resting whenever it suited them. This style of racing has proven more interesting and exciting than the old continuous grind.

First Garden Race in 1891

The first six day race ever held in Madison Square Garden was in 1891, seven riders starting and riding twenty hours a day. Plugger Bill Martin, of Lowell, Mass., won with 1446 miles. He rode on an old style, ordinary wheel. Charles Ashinger, on a high wheel, won in 1892, while in 1893, Albert Shock won on a safety bicycle, while his competitors rode high wheels. There was no race in 1894. In 1895 a woman's race was contested and was won by Fannie Nelson.

Again in 1896 the men's race was resumed, and Teddy Hale, from Ireland, won, while Charlie Miller of Chicago, accounted for the races in 1897 and 1898.

In 1898 the authorities passed a law prohibiting the contestants from riding more than twelve hours a day. Team racing was then taken up.

The first team contest was won by Charlie Miller and Frank McFarland. They covered 2733 miles and four laps, a record that stood until 1908, when McFarland and Moran won with a total distance of 2737 miles and one lap. The late Henry Tikes and Floyd McFarland won the following year, and in 1901 the race was won by Walthour and McEachern. George Leander and Fred Krebs won in 1902. Walthour repeated in 1903, with Benny Munro as partner.

Root Winner in 1904

Eddie Root won his first six-day race in 1904, his partner being Oliver Dorion. Root repeated the next year, but this time his mate was Joe Folger, the Brooklyn cyclist. Folger and Root won again in 1906. For the first time since team racing was inaugurated a foreign team won the race in 1907, when Walter Rutt of Germany and John Stiel of Holland, came home in front. Floyd McFarland again put his name among the winners in 1908, when, with Moran as his partner, he won and established a new six-day record of 2737 miles and one lap.

In 1909 McFarland started with Jackie Clarke and Rutt had Stiel as his mate. McFarland and Stiel retired and Rutt and Clarke paired up. They not only regained the lap they were penalized but had a lap at the finish. Eddie Root and mate won in 1910. The 1911 race saw Frank Kramer in his fifth six-day race, and he had Jimmy Moran as his partner. The best they could do, however, was to finish in second place, a lap behind the winners, Clarke and Folger.

Folger was again a member of the winning team the following year. His partner was Walter Rutt, the demon Dutchman.

The 1913 race brought Alfred Gouillet to the fore. With Folger as his mate the pair carried off the honors. Gouillet also accounted for the 1914 race, with Alfred Grenda as his partner.

The following year saw a new world's record created, when Grenda and Hill won with a total of 2770.8 miles. A foreign combination won the 1916 race, when Egg and Dupuy pedaled to victory. In the 1917 cycle race Gouillet and Magin took first honors with 1002 points and rode 2510 miles. The 1918 grind was won by McFarland and Magin with 1197 points and they rode 2447 miles. Gouillet again took first honors in the 1919 event, riding with Maden. The team piled up 818 points and ground out 2501 miles. In 1920 there was a spring race at the Garden and Gouillet again was the winner, teamed with Magin. They totalled 1238 points and rode 2379.2 miles.

Last year's event was won by Grenda and McFarland. Many rabid cycling fans expect to take up their beds and spend the week at the Garden.

BRITISH DIGNITY GETS SHATTERED

Dr. Henry Harrower, In London Address, Causes Much Enthusiasm

should really put our feet on the ground and help paddle it along. But it landed us at a station known as the Elephant and Castle—principally because no elephant ever saw the place and the nearest castle is miles away—and from there we reached our respective destinations.

Like Roll of Honor

Later, Dr. Harrower addressed a notable gathering of French celebrities.

"Twenty-one of the most eminent scientists in France assembled at a few days' notice and a list of their names reads like a list of the roll of honor of the Academy of Science. Carnot, you have all heard of; Leopold-Levi, as well, and—but why go on. He has a list of them all, and while at dinner, the gentleman at my right went around the table and told me the names and professional posts of them all. He ended by adding: 'That Dr. Harrower should have attained a position of such eminence in the scientific world at his early age, speaks volumes for his energy and ability.'"

"After the dinner came the address. First let me say, however, that Dr. Leopold-Levi proposed Dr. Harrower's health in a speech—in French, of course. He is proposing to make Dr. Harrower honorary president of the Society for the Study of the Internal Secretions of France.

"There was a little interlude while these eminent gentlemen drank their coffee and settled themselves for the evening, during which a pianist having appeared in the person of one of those present, Dr. Harrower astonished the whole assembly by singing them their own national song, 'The Marseillaise' in French. I need not remind you that Dr. Harrower's voice is not the least of his accomplishments, and under such circumstances, in such a room, the thrilling strains of the melody gripped everyone's heart, so that they all stood up and joined in the end of the song, afterwards applauding in a manner which left no doubt of their appreciation, and Dr. Harrower was firmly ensconced in a warm place in their collective hearts.

Understood, Anyway
"Then for an hour he told them

his little story in their own language—not quite elegant French, it is true, but they understood what he was driving at. An interesting discussion ensued, and we broke up about 11 o'clock. It was an eventful night and one at which I was proud to assist.

"I left Dr. Harrower in Paris arranging to see patients with these gentlemen and go to their clinics, etc., and came back to London on the midnight train to my own little job, feeling that I had learned a lot—and I had.

"Harrower's work has been accorded its rightful place here to a very large extent. His books have been read and appreciated, and he is recognized as an authority on a very interesting subject. The meeting at New Cross was supposed to last about 40 minutes or an hour. Suffice it to say that it lasted until almost midnight.

"Organotherapy, generally speaking, is looked upon here as the coming thing in medicine, and every doctor, from the least to the greatest, is out to learn all that he can about it. The feeling is that he who does not learn is going to be left in the lurch.

"Thus they are brought right up against the fact that it is one thing to read general articles on organotherapy in some journal, and quite another to get a book which will really teach them something about the general subject, and quite another still to get any real information that will help them to apply what they learn.

"Hence, 'Practical Organotherapy' is much appreciated by every doctor who gets it, and we have had endless compliments upon it, all tending to the same general expression: 'This book really tells you something.'"

"Also, we have had doctors sitting here in this private office from the really greatest in the land—who reside around the corner, Harley street, in what is perhaps, the greatest street full of scientific men in the world—all the way down to practitioners who have journeyed from all sorts of places to ask our help. They come frankly stating that they know very little on the subject, but are open to learn."

RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA FAVORED

Sir Edward M. Edgar Says British Policy Is Like U. S. to Mexico

By CHARLES A. SMITH
For International News Service.

LONDON.—The first act of the new British government in the sphere of foreign policy should be the recognition of the Soviet government," Sir Edward MacKay Edgar, famous British banker and chairman of Sperling Brothers, said today as his considered opinion in an interview with International News Service.

"So far as I can see," said Sir Edward, "Russia is the dominating problem confronting the new government. What are we to do with Russia? On the answer to that question hangs the peace of Europe and the security of the British position in India and throughout Asia.

"At present Britain seems to have no policy in regard to Russia. Or if she has one it is very like President Wilson's policy in regard to Mexico. Mr. Wilson would not recognize any government in Mexico because he disapproved of its origin. The consequence was that Mexico wallowed in bloodshed and chaos, when a helping hand would have set her on her feet again.

Called Bad Policy
"Britain is making the same mistake with Russia. She disapproves of the Bolsheviks and therefore will have no trade with them. That is to say, she will sit with their delegates at international conferences and make trade agreements with them, but she will not recognize them.

"All this is bad policy, and British trade is beginning to find it anything but amusing. The Urquhart agreement stands out as an example. The agreement was not ratified simply because the Russian rulers cannot stand the way they are being treated by the British foreign office.

"In my opinion the new government could not make a better start than by ending the futile and, to British trade, costly quarrel with Russia."

If straightened out, an ounce of spider's web would extend 250 miles.

Common house flies have been proved to migrate as much as six miles in one day.

Racing Man Asserts French Turf Unfair

PARIS — Captain Jefferson Davis Cohn, English racehorse proprietor, who has been represented on the French turf since 1898, has announced his intention, to retire from the race courses of France, alleging unfair play. Captain Cohn has a stable of 200 horses that he will endeavor to sell en bloc.

This decision was taken by the English sportsman after a series of what he claims to be unfair tactics on the part of the stewards at Longchamp. The climax was reached when Cohn's horse, Le Dauphin, was disqualified after winning the Paris Council Prize. The stewards claim, Al Sharpe, the jockey, was four ounces under weight. It is reported the horse's owner lost $50,000 on this race.

Seventeen states now levy a tax on gasoline. They are Arizona, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Montana, New Mexico, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Washington, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, North Carolina, Oregon and South Dakota. The last six exempt gasoline used for other than motor purposes.

Memorialize First U. S. Constitution

ATHENS, Ohio.—Many years ago Lord Dunmore's army arrived at the mouth of the Hocking river, where Hockingport is situated, near here. There, dissatisfied with King George of England, the officers of the army drew up the first American declaration of independence from Great Britain before moving on to attack the Indians on the Scioto plains.

The daughters of the American revolution are arranging for the erection of a memorial at the spot where the first declaration of independence was drawn up.

Most Akron Arrests Are Young Citizens

AKRON, O.—It's the youth of Akron who keep police busy, according to department records. Most arrests here are of persons between 20 and 30 years of age. Nearly 40 per cent of the 810 arrests during September were of young men and women under 30. Rests of persons over 60, and 19 September's report shows 131 arrests of boys and girls between 15 and 20.

The World Over

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE.
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The majority of the critics seem to be agreed on the fact that Jack Dempsey, as a fighter, is deteriorating with every month that slips by. There are few sports in which a man can excel unless he is in constant practice. The golfer who lays off the game for six months certainly is not a better player when he again takes to his clubs.

The same thing applies in the fight game, and one of the things a fighter loses when he is not at the game is his measure of distance, a mighty important item in a contest. A man may be quite as strong physically and have the same power behind the blow, but if he does not land with the requisite accuracy, the fact counts but little.

At that, there is no prospect among the heavies who can be considered anything as good as Dempsey even though he is not at his best. The probability is that the man to lick Dempsey still is unknown to fame.

Many football followers who have seen the University of California, and some of the best of the eastern football teams in action, maintain that the Pacific institution could take the measure of any of its eastern organizations. Of course, this is a question that never can be settled and each individual is entitled to his own opinion, but there is no gainsaying the fact that the Bears have an eleven that, individually, matches up with the very best the American gridiron has to offer.

Next season Coach Andy Smith will lose about seven of his first-string players and it is possible that the days of the California juggernaut will be over. There may be no question that the very marked superiority of California over all other teams on the coast has robbed the season of a lot of interest. It is hard to get excited over a contest the result of which is in no doubt, the only question being "how big a score will they run up?"

Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion, has had a lot of tough luck, but intimates of the fighter say that he is as good as ever and that stories to the effect that he has retrograded are all bosh. As a matter of fact, those close to the champion say that they eventually expect to see Leonard get into the welterweight class, and some go so far as to say that they would not be surprised to see him going after the middleweight title one of these days. This, on the face of it, appears like a far cry, but stranger things than that have happened in the ring. As a lightweight champion Leonard certainly has sustained all the traditions of the position in the matter of his ability as a fighter.

SPORTS CHATTER

When the New York Boxing Commission refuses permission to allow Pancho Villa to go out of his weight class it would seem the said commission is somewhat dictatorial in its policy. If Villa wants to fight heavier men—why not. We can recall the day when the weight question was not a factor at all in boxing. In those days men gave away all sorts of poundage and the little fellow could hold his own and then some with the big man.

Going out of one's class is nothing new. Many champions have done it. We remember the time when Bob Fitzsimmons held the world's middleweight title and the world heavy title as well.

To our way of thinking a governing boxing commission is a good thing for the boxing sport provided the game is not hedged round with too many legislative technicalities.

The trap shooting followers of the world know the name of Frank Troch. To followers of the clay pigeon sport the name of Frank Troch is just as internationally known as is the name of Jack Dempsey to the ring. Charlie Paddock to track athletics and Bill Tilden to tennis. For years past Troch of Vancouver, Wash., has won title after title and set innumerable records. He may not have won as many individual state or district or other titles this year but would up the season with an average of 98 1-3 per cent made on 6,260 targets. It is the best full season shooting ever done by either a professional or an amateur and constitutes a new world record for a season.

November is one of the most important months of the year in so far as historic events of the boxing world is concerned. Many world titles have been decided in this month but two of them little known today and of days gone by form an important chapter in the boxing history of the world.

On November 26, 1862, Tom Mace, the great Englishman failed to defend his title, or rather lost it, to Tom King in twenty-one rounds fought in thirty-eight minutes. Those were the days of bare knuckle fighting and a knock down constituted a round. King claimed the belt on this win but refused to meet Mace again. The latter eventually was awarded the belt.

In 1871 Mace came to this country and on November 30 he fought Joe Couburn for the American title. The fight was held at Bay St. Louis, Miss., and went twelve rounds to a draw.

Judging by the way that the French Boxing Federation is handling Mr. Battling Siki, the authorities grant no favors to champions. If there was an organized government of boxing in this entire country we wonder if such a body would have the nerve to take such drastic action should the occasion arise, as the French governing body took with Siki. Authority handled as the French have done it keeps the sport in control.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Knight of 1305 East California avenue had the pleasure of entertaining over Sunday their son, Alfred Knight of Losmont.

Miss Nellie Miller of Los Angeles was recently the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Homer B. Miller of 434 West Burchett street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Tholen of North Brand boulevard spent several days last week in Long Beach, where they were guests of Mrs. Tholen's cousin, Frederick M. Thornhill.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnston of 111 North Everett street will entertain this week-end Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Wilson of Sacramento and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Richardson of Seaside, Ore.

Miss Florida Paige of Los Angeles was a dinner guest on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Verne Patrick of South San Fernando road. Miss Paige and Mrs. Patrick are cousins.

The women of the First Methodist church home missionary society are holding their regular monthly all-day meeting at the church today. Gifts for the benefit Christmas tree will be received.

Mrs. Lloyd Comstock of East Maple avenue spent Monday night at Lankershim, where she was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mathewson. Mrs. Comstock was formerly a resident of that city.

The Wednesday club met yesterday at the home of Mrs. Katherine Clowworthy, 552 West Elk street. A delicious cafeteria luncheon was served, following which sewing and a social time were enjoyed.

Miss Eleanor McMillan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McMillan of 350 West Broadway, was taken down with influenza on Saturday of last week and has been confined to her bed ever since, under the care of a physician.

Mrs. W. B. Loftus of 336 East Dryden street spent the week-end at Antelope Valley with Mr. and Mrs. A. Lawton, after motoring there with her sister and husband, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Straffer, who were also guests of the Lawtons.

Clarence Hall and wife of San Fernando road returned Monday from Imperial valley, where they motored last week with a party of Hollywood friends. While they were in the valley Mr. and Mrs. Hall were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Rankin.

Mrs. Emma T. Pray, of 368 West Milford street, returned Tuesday from Bakersfield, where she enjoyed a week's visit with her daughter Miss Alice Pray, who has a position in the county law library there. Mrs. Pray came back by way of the ridge route.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Kranz, who are now living at 122 Fairview avenue, will move into their beautiful new stucco bungalow home at the corner of Mountain and Louise streets, as soon as it is completed, which they believe will be about the middle of January.

The Glendale

There will be but one performance at the Glendale Theatre tonight but that will be an elaborate one. In addition to Will Rogers in Washington Irving's "Headless Horseman," a preview of "Gimme," Rupert Hughes' latest Goldwyn feature, will be shown.

Included in the cast of this latter picture are such noted players as Henry B. Walthall, Gaston Glass, Helene Chadwick and Florence Roberts.
Those expected to be present number Frank Godsof, president, Abraham Lehr, vice president, Edwin Bowes, vice president, all of Goldwyn's executive forces, and Eric Von Stroheim and Rupert Hughes, directorial chiefs.

Lamp Explodes, Four Children Lose Lives

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Four little kiddies, the eldest 11 years old, the youngest ten months, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home early today.

Four others were severely burned and may die.
The dead: Mamie Hudak, 9, Sophie, 10, John, 3, Eva, 10 months.
John Hudak, the father, his wife, Veronica, Anna, 12, and Mike, 16, were taken to People's hospital in a critical condition.

A high wind, sweeping through an open window, blew over a kerosene lamp and caused the flame to burst into flames.
The children were trapped by the fire and died in their little beds.

A tired father had put them to bed the night before. He had told them a fairy story of a fairy that might come during the night.
All they had to do was to be quiet and leave the lamps burning.

Came a high wind, rain, sleet. The kiddies thought it was the fairy. Then the wind howled extra loud and the lamp toppled with a crash.
The father, in another room, awakened from his sleep and leaped from a window.

"My God!" he cried, "my babies! Where are they?"
He dashed back into the burning furnace. He had in his hands an axe, borrowed from a neighbor. But he was too late.

The fire department arrived. In a few moments his red-helmeted men were carrying the little forms out from the burning home.
Budak, crazed, cried out for his wife.

He rushed back in. He must find Veronica. Inside he collapsed.
But he found Veronica—an hour later. She was on the next cot, dying.

Plot to Escape From L. A. Jail Is Foiled

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—What is believed to have been a plot to enact a wholesale delivery from the county jail was nipped in the bud yesterday. Max Baller found half a dozen saws, to be used in cutting steel bars, in the possession of E. A. McNabb, a prisoner.

Jail attaches say that McNabb and "Fat" McDonald, partner of Guido Spahr, a member of the Herbert Wilson so-called millionaire bandit trio, who escaped jail in October but was recaptured again, planned to flee together.

Following the discovery of the saws both prisoners were placed in solitary confinement.
"All one needs to get out of this jail is a can-opener," one of the prisoners is alleged to have said.

Charles Bock Gives Party, 93rd Birthday

Charles Bock, G. A. R. veteran, of Eagle Rock, celebrated his ninety-third birthday yesterday. Seven of his old comrades were present. They were J. A. Thayer, 89, T. M. Barrett, 81, Wilson Catt, 75, J. L. Denney, 79, T. C. Fuller, 77, W. G. Collins, 76, and C. R. Norton, 77. Adding Mr. Bock's 93 years to this list, the total is 638 years, an average of 59 years for each of the surviving members of America's "Grand Old Blue."

In addition to the comrades gathered together, three of their wives were present. Mrs. Bock, wife of the honored host, Mrs. Thayer and Mrs. Norton. Four daughters and a granddaughter of the host were present, also.

All the guests were gratified to observe how vigorous and strong Comrade Bock appeared, in spite of his advanced years. He walked about without difficulty and was very jovial and witty. His service in the Civil War was with the Second Nebraska Cavalry.

SECTIONS TO MEET
Miss Eva Daniels of 324 West Colorado street is to be hostess Monday afternoon at the meeting of the Parliamentary Law and Legislative sections of the Tuesday Afternoon club.

Mrs. P. S. McNutt is to direct the parliamentary drill. Mrs. C. A. Brandstater is emcee of the Parliamentary Law section and Mrs. Benjamin Holbrook of the Legislative section.

The T. D. & L.

"The Man Who Saw Tomorrow," which continues at the T. D. & L. Theatre, proves what an unapproachable combination of excellent acting and a novel story will make.

Thomas Meighan is starred in a difficult role, which he plays with charm and skill. Theodore Roberts, in the part of the old sea captain, adds another achievement to his long list of superb characterizations, while Leatrice Joy, June Elvidge and Eva Novak lend an excellent strength to the supporting cast.

The action, which takes place in the South Seas, London, New York, India, is vivid and unforgettable. A picture not to miss.

Georges Clemenceau Visits White House

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 7.—Georges Clemenceau reached the city of his American tour today at the goal of all visiting foreign statesmen—the White House.

Around the hospitable table in the state dining room, as the guest of President Harding, the aged Tiger planned to press home upon the head of the American government the arguments for American aid in Europe, which he has consistently expounded from the lecture platform to American audiences in a dozen states.

M. Clemenceau's visit to the White House today—his second and last—brings to a virtual close his "mission" to America.

The Tiger has expressed neither disappointment nor elation over his short talk with Mr. Wilson in the quiet library at 2340 S street beyond the polite observation that he was glad to see his old colleague again and exchange personal greetings with him. His visit to Mr. Wilson, however, was so brief, lasting but 18 minutes, that he did not have an opportunity to discuss in any detail his mission to this country.

Three Assassinated In Bulgarian Outbreak

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Revolution has broken out in Bulgaria and revolutionaries are marching upon Sofia, the capital, according to reports received here today from Athens and Belgrade.

Three former Bulgarian ministers, M. Daneff, M. Guechoff and M. Malinoff, are reported to have been assassinated.

Later a telegram was received, dated Sofia, saying that the government had succeeded in pacifying the agrarian rebels.

A Belgrade dispatch stated that communication between that city and Sofia was interrupted, but that refugees arriving at the Jugo-Slav frontier reported that the Bulgarian cabinet was proclaiming a state of siege.

Macedonian agrarian rebels occupied the Bulgarian city of Kustendil, but the Bulgarian war office announced Wednesday that the place had been re-taken without resistance.

Conflicting reports have obscured the real situation in Bulgaria.

Aid Society Plans to Conduct Bazaar

The members of the Ladies' Aid of Casa Verdugo church announce their annual bazaar will be held all day Saturday, Dec. 9, in the basement rooms of the church.

Mrs. M. Case and Mrs. Wm. F. Blaikie will have charge of the fancy needle work and Mrs. L. F. Drake, the miscellaneous articles. Cooked food will also be on sale. The young ladies of the Epworth League will have charge of the candy. Light luncheon will be served at noon and buffet supper at night, under the direction of Mrs. John W. Cotton, president of the Aid society, and assisting members.

TO CLOSE ON SUNDAY

Many good things are in store for patrons at the Wheeler's Delicatessen shop during the holiday weeks. The usual hot things to take home along with the fine home-made pies and cakes. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler have decided to close their shop every Sunday beginning this Sunday, so ask their patrons to put their orders in early on Fridays.

DISPLAY ART WORK
Exhibit of the art work of the pupils of the schools from grades one to eight may be seen for the remainder of this week at Penderoy's Department store, the Security Trust & Savings bank, and the Brand Boulevard Branch of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings bank.

MUSICAL LEADERS TO MEET
Lyman P. Clark, president of the Kiwanis club, has called a meeting of various musical leaders interested in the community Christmas tree and celebration, tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce.

The art of molding and casting in bronze was invented 700 B. C.

Images were introduced into various churches about 300 A. D.

Minimum Wage for Girl $18; Is Claim

NEW YORK—Eighteen dollars a week is the minimum salary upon which a girl can live comfortably and decently in New York City, Miss Cornelia E. Marshall, president of the Association to Promote Proper Housing for Girls, declared at the recent two-day conference of the organization.

Big Cross Memorial to Denver War Dead

DENVER—A gigantic illuminated cross atop Mount Genesee, about twenty-five miles west of Denver, is being planned by business men's organizations of this city as a memorial to Colorado's soldier dead in the World War. It is expected the giant cross will be visible from Denver both day and night.

CHRISTMAS LINENS FROM ABROAD

This shop's linen stock, both in size and variety, forcibly demonstrates that it is real headquarters for linens.

We import direct from Ireland, the Madeira Islands and Belgium—and through co-operation with Mr. John B. McBratney of the Irish Linen Store of Monrovia—are able to buy to greater advantage than any store even in Los Angeles, and, naturally, undersell other stores. Last month we filled mail orders from regular customers in Detroit, Mich., in Kansas, Washington, and many parts of California, and a great per cent of our business comes from people who KNOW good linens in Pasadena, Los Angeles and Hollywood—and who, by comparison, have found that we give better values. In fact, the Irish Linen Stores of Glendale and Monrovia have a state-wide reputation for exclusive merchandise—priced right. This is one store where you will really SAVE by trading at home.

MAKE UP YOUR LIST FROM THESE SUGGESTIONS

Exquisite Imported Table Cloths, Luncheon Cloths, Center Pieces, Buffet and Dresser Sets, Bed Spreads, Sheets, Pillow Cases, Doilies, Oblongs, Tea and Dinner Napkins, Guest Towels, etc.

12,000 Handkerchiefs

This is the number we sold last season in December alone, and we have made preparations to double that this year. Never in the history of this store have we had such a large and magnificent stock of beautifully embroidered and exquisite handkerchiefs, all linen handkerchiefs for men and women, at prices in many instances, no more than asked for cotton ones. Also many cunning little handkerchiefs for children.

IN MEMORIAM

Bud is dead! No longer will his cheery "Good morning" or "Good night" greet those with whom he worked and knew him best, nor his happy smile and word of greeting meet those whom he served.

Little did he think when he came to work Sunday morning and began the day with his usual happy "Good morning" that it would be his final greeting to his fellow workers and friends.

Little did he think that the "Goodbye" he said to his wife and baby in Pasadena was goodbye forever.

In the short space of twenty-six hours, hours lengthened into days by intense suffering, Bud's life ebbed out, while grief-stricken family and friends hoped in vain. It was a losing fight and as night came on Bud passed on to the Great Beyond.

And now wife and baby, father and sisters and a host of devoted friends will see Bud carried to his last resting place and face a great loss, made deeply tragic by the terrible accident that brought death into our midst.

Selby Thomas Brengle was his name, but to all who knew him he was simply Bud.

A capable and efficient employe, always ready to do the task that fell to his lot, happily serving employer and patrons alike, Bud had won a place in the seven months he was in business in Glendale, that cannot be filled in a day, or even a year. The place he won was not in the hearts of few but of many.

His friends were his employer, his fellow employes, his neighbors and those whom he met about his tasks each day. He knew them all, his happy greeting was for them all and they in turn liked Bud.

At a little home over in Pasadena there is a vacant chair and sorrowing family, whose sorrow is our sorrow, for we knew Bud and liked him and we shall miss him, too.

Bud is gone, but we shall not forget him!

Expansion of Legal System Need, Claim

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 7. —Attorney General Daugherty told congress in his annual report today that a complete reorganization and expansion of the government's legal system is necessary if the criminal laws and other statutes are to be enforced. Problems arising under the Volstead act and the anti-narcotic act, together with the enforcement of other laws have put a tremendous load on the department of justice, the attorney general said, while this burden was declared to have been further increased by the "failure of local self-government" in some parts of the country.

"The insistence of the citizens of those communities," Daugherty said, "that the federal government perform that function in which the local government has failed and frequently in matters where there is concurrent jurisdiction between the state and federal government, it is difficult to establish a policy as to the extent to which the federal government should take jurisdiction."

"The existing procedure for the removal of a defendant to the jurisdiction where the crime was committed is unduly cumbersome and results in unjustified delay and injustice."

Jack Dempsey Due In Los Angeles Today

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—When Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, who is scheduled to arrive here this afternoon to fulfill a vaudeville contract, reaches Los Angeles, the footlights will be forgotten if an advance guard for Jess Willard, former champion, and who is seeking a return match with Dempsey, can have their way.

Dempsey, who Willard says has been "stalling" about another match with him, declares that he will meet all comers, Willard included, in four rounds on the theatre stage. Willard's ministers plenipotentiary, two of them, say Dempsey knows well enough that Willard is not in condition to meet him in an impromptu bout, but what they want is an oratorical contest with his manager, Jack Kearns.

ber of cases under the prohibition law during the past fiscal year was noted in the report. This was attributed to the "increased efficiency of the officers charged with the enforcement of this law."

URGE DIRECTORS TO EXPRESS VIEW

Ask C. of C. Leaders to Take Official Stand on Annexation Move

(Continued from Page 1) meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last Friday night for this purpose. And when we put the question involved up to the directors: "What is the stand of the directorate relative to annexation?" the representative answer of the organization was: "We are not in a position to take sides one way or the other," or words to that effect.

After relating the mental attitude of the chamber directors toward giving the committee a definite answer, Mr. Guthrie continued:

One Prevents Claim
"The only reason that the Chamber of Commerce has refused to declare itself on this question is because one of the members of directors is a pro-annexationist." He didn't mention any name. "This man," he declared, "has been instrumental in deferring the whole directorate from taking sides on this issue."

"As far as the Chamber of Commerce not feeling disposed to take a stand on this most momentous issue, what is the chamber any way?" he inquired. "It was organized for the upbuilding and preservation of Glendale. We, as an organization, have given it thousands of dollars for this purpose. It's a civic employe, and as such I move that a letter similar to the one as prepared by the Exchange club directors be addressed to the Chamber of Commerce demanding that it state its stand on annexation one way or the other."

Mr. Guthrie's remarks were cheered by the assemblage for several minutes. After the applause had subsided the membership of the Real Estate board voted unanimously "to use its influence in shaking something like action out" of the Chamber of Commerce.

Letter Not Released

W. B. Kelly, chairman of the Exchange Club, and James Howarth, secretary, stated today that the communication of inquiry directed at the Chamber of Commerce directors will not be released for publication until it is officially passed upon by the members of the club.

"However," said Secretary Howarth, "it is our purpose to forward copies of the letter to the various civic organizations throughout the city of the Glendale and ask that they write letters to the Chamber of Commerce directors. We who are opposed to annexation would like to have

RED CROSS AIDS EX-SERVICE MEN

Christmas Contribution Is Discussed at Meeting of Executive Board

(Continued from Page 1) Consequently the Glendale women decided not to send their gift direct to any one hospital. The local Red Cross is also to have a part in the year's contest started December 1 among Glendale Boy Scouts. Numerous prizes are to be awarded at the end of the year to scouts standing first in the various events and the Red Cross is to offer as its prize a well equipped first-aid kit.

Gifts Congratulations
Mrs. Bartlett spoke on the fine contributions of clothing for the Smyrna emergency and reported the clothing had been shipped in the morning to Brooklyn, New York, from where it goes overseas. She stated that she had received a letter from Pacific headquarters congratulating her upon the fine response of Glendale people.

An informal report was given by Mrs. Brown, chairman of home service. She told of needy ex-service men and their families who had received aid from the local Red Cross.

Another matter discussed was whether the chapter should continue contributing $600 a year towards the salary of the city nurse. This matter is now under consideration.

Mrs. Bartlett presented a notice of a change in the constitution and by-laws, which will provide that those present at a meeting of the chapter will constitute a quorum.

Hammers Carried to Break Booze Flask

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—Hammers are among the chief accessories carried by motorists in Raleigh county, according to Captain Thomas C. Norton, commanding Company C of the state police. They are for use in case the drivers unexpectedly come upon state police during their tours. They are not used with murderous intent, but merely to destroy evidence. At the sight of a state trooper there is a crash of glass, and moonshine is doused in the road.

Known radium supply in Jachymov, Czechoslovakia will last twenty years.

The Chamber of Commerce directors take some official stand on the question, either for or against annexation."

MEXICO SCENE OF PHILLIPS SEARCH

Sheriff Traeger and His Deputies Seeking Traces of 'Hammer' Slayer

The opinion that Mrs. Phillips had never left Los Angeles was strengthened today when Sheriff Traeger and his deputies ran down countless clues that she had crossed the border into Mexico and found that they had nothing but theory to work on.

That Mrs. Phillips was aided in her escape by three men was the contention today of Mike Lannon, watchman at the county garage in New High street, within a block of the jail. One of the three men, according to the version, kept watch at the machine, while the other two went to the roof of the jail building to assist Mrs. Phillips. Lannon said he was standing in the doorway of the garage about 2 a. m. Tuesday when a large and high-powered touring car with the curtains drawn drove up and stopped.

"Come on, everything is all right," one of the men called to his confederate, Lannon said. The third man ran across the street, then ran to the machine and sped away. The men were also accompanied by a woman when they left, Lannon said.

Fail In All Efforts to Trace 'Tiger Woman'

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—Displaying the same cunning wit that she matched against officers of the law and succeeded in making her daring escape from the county jail on Monday night, Clara Phillips, convicted murderer and facing a prison sentence for life, became the "phantom woman" today when every possible clue as to her "lair of safety" proved futile. Mrs. Phillips at 7 a. m. today had been a fugitive from justice for forty-eight hours and no more was known at that time as to her hiding place than the minute the alarm of her escape was given.

Officially the sheriff's office declared they believed a clue that would lead to her apprehension would be found before the day was over. On the other hand, deputies detailed to locate the former chorus girl openly and frankly admitted that they had run down a few leads, which at first seemed good "leads," but all in the end proved an idle waste of time and effort.

Every dance hall, gambling and dope den in Tijuana, Mexico, was being searched today by Sheriff William I. Traeger and Under Sheriff Biscailuz on an apparently authentic report that Mrs. Phillips had succeeded in reaching an asylum in the racing city. Sheriff Traeger, after a hurried automobile trip to San Diego, crossed into Mexico early today, according to advices reaching here.

While Sheriff Traeger was in San Diego, Deputy Sheriff Stensland redoubled his efforts to locate Edward "Gold Tooth" Johnson to question him again concerning Mrs. Phillips' sensational flight. Johnson, known as a gambler and race horse track "hanger on" and who is said to have become infatuated with Mrs. Phillips while they both were in jail, was interrogated late yesterday and released after giving an account of his actions on Monday night. However, today, it was considered advisable on the face of new information, to question him again.

Every possible theory as to the ruse being employed by the fugitive to aid her in evading officers is being entertained and run down in the minutest detail. The most amazing of these extreme theories was that she may have discarded her feminine garb for that of a man, clipped her hair and is appearing in the role of a youth.

The sheriff's office, it was learned today, is now convinced that Armour L. Phillips, the escaped woman's husband, "who told" that she had confessed to him of having beaten Mrs. Meadows to death with a hammer, knows nothing of his wife's jail break and that he will be released from technical custody.

Mrs. Peggy Caffee, whose "eyewitness" story of the crime was told at the "tiger woman's" trial as the state's most important witness, was reported to have forsaken the home of friends and to be back at her own residence at Long Beach today.

FIRE DAMAGES STEAMER
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—A message to the marine department of the chamber of commerce today from Bellingham Bay, Washington, said the steamer, "Willie A. Higgins," narrowly escaped destruction by fire following an explosion in her hold.

HEALTH OF CITY BEING GUARDED

Municipal Department at Brand and Los Feliz Is Well Equipped

The laboratory is now equipped to be of service to every taxpayer of Glendale.

Regular milk tests are now being made by Miss Jongeneel. Before a dairy is licensed to deliver milk to the homes of Glendale, samples of its milk must be submitted for analysis. If this is deficient in butter fat, the permit is withheld. After the license has been granted, frequent tests are made to ascertain that the dairy is keeping the quality of its product up to standard. Last month samples of milk from thirty-seven dairies selling milk in Glendale were tested.

State law requires all communicable diseases to be reported by the physician attending the case to the nearest health department. The new municipal laboratory is now prepared to make throat cultures to ascertain whether patients have diphtheria. It is also prepared to make the necessary bacteriological tests for typhoid fever and tuberculosis. All analyses are made as promptly as the bacteria will permit.

Well Equipped
"The laboratory is well equipped," remarked Miss Jongeneel yesterday afternoon. "In fact, it is better equipped than most laboratories."

The equipment includes a binocular microscope capable of magnifying one "bacterium" 1300 times, a still to sterilize all water used for washing the glassware used as receptacles, several types of sterilizers, a centrifugal machine used in making milk tests, a centrifugal machine to separate the contents of test tubes according to specific gravity, an incubator, the interior of which is kept continuously at 37½ degrees Centigrade in order to develop bacteria in cultures, a pair of finely adjusted analytical balances, and a still for testing alcoholic liquors for the Glendale Police department.

The city health department is now co-operating with Miss Helen S. Tupper of 1005 East California avenue, school nurse. Pupils who are ill for five days, including Saturday or Sunday, may obtain the necessary permits to return to school either at the Willson Avenue Intermediate school or at the city health department. In both cases, the hours during which these permits will be issued is the same—from 8 to 9 a. m. and from 3:30 to 4:30 p. m.
